Council Appoints Man to Take the Census

The Blairmore village council met in Budd's hall on Monday evening last. There were present, councillors H. E. Lyon and L. Dutil, and Secretary-treasurer W. A. Beebe. Minutes of last meeting were read and adopted.

The C. P. R. wrote the council re the Eighth avenue crossing. The railway company informed the council that as this was not a regular crossing, the latter party would have to refer the matter to the railway commission at Ottawa. The communication was ordered forwarded to Ottawa with application and blue prints showing where said crossing is needed.

A communication from Lent & Jones, barristers, was read.
This communication dealt with R. Lake's claim in connection with water works. It was tabled.

A communication from a firm supplying hose for use of the village, asking when they might ship goods on order, was tabled.

T. P. Cyr was awarded the contract to move the Mercantile hall and dwelling off Blair-born street. His price was $450.

There ensued a lengthy discussion in regards to water connections and rates, resulting in councillors Dutil and Lyon agreeing to draw up schedule of rates and values.

Councillor H. E. Lyon presented a largely signed petition from the residents of the Pol-letier addition, asking for a bridge to be built over Lyon creek at the corner of Eighth avenue and Main street. Mr.
Lyon said that he considered this bridge was badly needed.
The matter was referred to the road and bridge committee for report.

M. B. Dawson was appointed to take the census of the village and if necessary he may engage E. Trono to assist him. This work will be completed by the end of the week.

Meeting adjourned till 8 p.m. on Friday next.

ditions generally, Tim is one of those "kitters" who has not overlooked the growing importance of the Crow's Nest Pass, and although he has not yet met with the fancies whom he would wish to captivate, Tim cherishes a small love for bachelorhood and a would-be/softhearts for the beautiful.
Tim is strongly an advocate of forming a Newfoundland club in Blairmore, or the Crow's Nest Pass, whereby the many Terra Novians throughout this district could congregate together for mutual benefit and enjoy chatting over the good old times in years gone by when "I and my father and two other dogs" went off Baccalieu in quest of seals. Tim has just stepped over the threshold of his twenty-fifth birthday. Twenty-nine years ago Tim left his home down by the sea on the rugged seaboard of Freshwater, and even yet it is one of his greatest pleasures to recall the many happy instances which occurred during the romance of Tim McCarthy's boyhood.

MOST DESIR- ABLE PLACE

In the Whole of Southern Alberta

For a Summer Resort, Says

Mr. H. F. Kenny.

THEY ALL LIKE BLAIRMORE

Will Hold Big Convention Here on

Aug. 8 to 13 and Every Year Following

Blairmore's beautiful scenery has become so tempting that many from time to time have had to yield to its attractiveness and have come and looked on in wonderment on its magnificent surroundings, have basked in the sunshine which almost constantly prevails the atmosphere, and have enjoyed the kind hospitality of its many genial and kind hearted citizens. All this and many other things have become so well known, that some of the very best people in Southern Alberta, who are not already here, have decided to visit Blairmore this summer and spend several days camping at the foot of our majestic mountains and by the side of the silvery lakes and rippling brooks. These new visitors will be members of Sunday schools and young people's societies.

H. F. Kenny, who is general secretary of the Alberta Sunday School Association, was in town on Friday and Saturday last, and after visiting Southern Alberta decided to make Blair-more a summer resort for all the teachers and officers of the Sunday schools and Young Peoples societies of the Methodist, Presbyterian and Baptist churches all over Southern Alberta. This was decided upon immediately after the West Canadian Collieries had kindly offered to Mr. Kenny for that purpose, ten acres of land at the south-west portion of Blairmore.

The ground so wisely decided upon by Mr. Kenny, the local clergymen and their co-workers is a park in itself. It has a nice, large, level green in the centre around which high and monster trees, like mighty towers, point to where we all hope to go some day, nearby are the stately mountains which wear their snowy caps in the very presence of the red sun; while at the base of these large eminences numerous little brooks shoot out and at last interlock themselves and form glossy lakes upon which persons may glide in perfect peace and sure safety.

The above named societies will meet in Blairmore in August next from the 8th to the 13th of the month, during which time addresses on their splendid work will be given by able and intelligent speakers, plans for future work will be laid, recreation, etc. will be indulged in, and a great, good and grand time will surely be spent by those visitors during their stay in "The El Dorado of the Golden West." There will be at least one hundred persons present, and tents will be erected for their use. Fuller details will be given later.

Blairmore Rate-Payers Want Incor- poration

At a meeting of the ratepayers, held in Budd's hall, on Friday evening last, it was proven beyond a doubt that incorporation of Blairmore into a town was what the people wanted.

The meeting was announced to take place at 8 p.m. When the time to start the meeting had arrived D. A. Sinclair was nominated as chairman and W.
A. Beebe as secretary. After the chairman had announced the object of the meeting as per hand bills, and notices in the ENTERPRISE, a motion was made by H. E. Lyon and seconded by L. Dutil that the ratepayers authorize the Blair-more village council to take the census with a view to incorporate said village into a town.
Upon the motion being put every ratepayer in the hall voted for it. Amongst those who were present and who voted for the motion were: D.
C. Drain, T. Kennedy, T. Fray-er, Archie McLeod, W. A. Beebe, J. F. Wilson, H. E. Lyon, I.
Loughheed, L. Dutil, and twenty others.

Mayer Cameron and Alderman

Blairmore for a short while on Sunday last. The genial mayor informs us a wonderfully great future is in store for Coleman. He does not believe that the day is far distant when the mines will be

The Great Adventure

And How It Solved the Problem of Four People

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Copyright by American Press Association, Inc.

Miss Penlow yawned behind her pretty hand and blinked her blue eyes at Roderick. "Dear boy," she murmured, "this is the seven hundredth time, more or less, that I've said 'I don't want to be married yet.' I want to enjoy my single blessedness for another year, or two, to have a good time, and I see my way clear to have it now that Aunt Ben has invited me to spend a winter in New York. Next fall, after the summer abroad she has promised me, I'll be ready to marry you and go to honeymooning in the dear, little, stuffy little apartment which, I am sure, is all we can afford."

"You are evidently thought the matter over carefully. Your reasons are most excellent ones, and I dare say you will have a splendid time with Mrs. Frakes. When are you going to start on your journey into the world?"

"A week from today. And what are you going to do, Rod? You spoke of joining Dick Ellis."

"I am planning to join Ellis on Thursday. We shall be gone all winter. I withheld my answer until I might know your decision, Edith. I will see you before I go."

Out in the silent street Roderick walked swiftly along the frosty pavement, his hands thrust deep in his coat pockets. His eyes searched the gloom ahead, as if they were trying to pierce the gray veil of the future that seemed stretched before him. Before the full Edith Penlow's dainty figure seemed to dance less word of affection at the end, something forgotten after all. One morning he took a sketching book and pencil and went forth on the trail of Edith, who had been gone hours before him on the quest of a brown bear which had invaded their storehouse the night before.

Roderick paused to rest on the fallen trunk of a giant tree, and his eyes started glances took in a scene that he never forgot.

Beyond him in a small clearing carpeted with a soft drift of newly fallen snow there stood a girl and a deer, quite unconscious of his presence. It was evident that each had emerged from the woods on opposite sides of the clearing and were now poised in startled contemplation of each other.

The girl, small and slender and graceful, wore a long red cape that enveloped her like the cloak of Little Red Riding Hood of nursery tales, and her fair hair was drawn in a red hood, framing the pale oval of her lovely young face, out of which shone eyes as shy and brown as those of the deer, which stood in an attitude of pitiable fright.

So they stood for a whole minute while Roderick transferred their heads to his black quiver and saw the eyes of his crays. Then he thrust both to his pocket and made a sharp sound with his lips. Instantly the animal turned and fled. Roderick, however, from whence it had come, while the girl leaned against a tree, one little hand against her palpitating bosom, staring at Roderick.

"You were frightened—there was no cause for alarm—but it was no doubt startling to come face to face with such a wild creature," he said, talking rather volubly to enable her to recover herself. How is it that you are alone so far from the settlement? Are you not afraid?" asked Roderick curiously.

"Indeed, no," she said in a surprised tone, "I know every inch of these woods, but I don't know all the dangers thereof. Now I can add another to my acquaintances." She smiled in such a wild creature, he said, talking rather volubly to enable her to recover herself. How is it that you are alone so far from the settlement? Are you not afraid?" asked Roderick curiously.

"Thank you," he said courteously. "I am proud to be received by the lady of the forest."

She blushed beautifully and bit the red curve of her lip thoughtfully. "Really, it seems such a long time to say, but I didn't mean you, sir. I meant the deer was a new acquaintance."

Roderick reddened as he laughed at his own confusion. "Whereas, in fact," he said emphatically, "for being such a concealed jackanapes. If I can be of no further service to you, I may as well get along after Edith."

"Oh, do you know Mr. Ellis?" she asked. "Is he here?"

"He's staying in Ajax for the hunting. I'm with him. My name's Wakely—Roderick Wakely."

"That's your name. Mr. Ellis has often mentioned your name to me. He always comes over to the lodge to see father and me. We have a camp away back here. You'll be glad to see him and his friend too."

The smile faded over her shoulders and disappeared. "Roderick," she whispered, and stamped her foot to the cabin, forgetting everything save the fact that at last the great picture was at hand.

After that the weeks flew rapidly while Roderick worked on his picture, tramped the woods hoping for a glimpse of Katharine. Deering met him at the lodge with his rifle and a deer or joined Ellis in his trips after brown bear and deer. Many evenings the three sat at the lodge with Colonel Deering and his daughter while the great fire blazed on the hearth and three flickering shadows over their heads.

As the spring came on Roderick's engagement to Edith Penlow seemed to fade into a dull background that he could not see. Katharine Deering met him at the lodge with his rifle and a deer or joined Ellis in his trips after brown bear and deer. Many evenings the three sat at the lodge with Colonel Deering and his daughter while the great fire blazed on the hearth and three flickering shadows over their heads.

In his perplexity Roderick felt the case before Dick Ellis. The latter gawped his pipstems savagely and looked at Roderick through narrowed lids.

"You're all over it, eh, Rod?" he asked bluntly.

"I'm ashamed to say I am," nodded the other. "I didn't know I was such a cat."

"You're not, only neither of you is in love with the other. Of course I'm Edith's fool," he voice lowered.

"The deer's a cat for you, never did. She's in love with me. Fact is, I'm not contented, and I want it happen I know it, only—only it was too late. You see, I love her, too. When I asked her to marry me and she said 'No,' I was just as good as dead."

"Then I'm off. Have Rusk send my traps down. Wish you luck, Rod. You don't wish me any, I know I'll win out."

Roderick whistled softly as he carefully wrapped his finished picture and started for the lodge. The great Adventure, it was called, this meeting of the timid girl and the frightened deer, and as he went through the woods toward the lodge, his heart was full of the thought that he was setting forth upon the greatest adventure of his life. When he saw Katharine coming through the cathedral silence of the forest toward him one glimpse of her face caused him to drop the great picture in the snow and take her in his arms.

Universalism. We sat in the moonlight, my lady and I. And looked at the stars that were smiling by.

At our feet spilled the waves of a turbulent sea. "As eternal as love," said my lady to me. "No one else in the universe loves us so."

And perhaps every pair up in Venus or Mars. Thought that moment of lovers in neighboring stars.

Thought that moment and care not what hour it was. For I know that I loved, and I knew that she loved.

RUSSIA'S ESTEEM

Blakreiff is the Joe Miller of the Muscovites.

HIS WIT TICKLES THE BEAR.

He Was the Court Fool That Many a Time Braved the Anger of Peter the Great—His Mistle of the Sword and a Wondrous Deal of Daring.

Every nation has its typical story, around whom crystallize all the boasting stories of a people. Thus England has its Joe Miller, Germany its Till Eulenspiegel, Italy its Panchino, the present in his Panchino, the present in his Panchino.

History records that Blakreiff was the favorite jester of Peter the Great. Tradition represents him as the constant companion of that czar, frequently exceeding him in wit and royal expense. One day, for example, a count of his had fallen under the czar's displeasure and was sentenced to death. Blakreiff undertook to obtain a reprieve.

"Not," he cried. "I will not grant what you are going to ask." Blakreiff dropped at once to his knees. "Peter Aleksevich," he cried, "I beg your death that scamp of a count of mine."

Peter, thus caught in his own trap, had no choice but to laugh and send a pardon to the culprit.

On another occasion Blakreiff asked that he might be enrolled among his master's domestic guards. Peter granted his request, but warned his jester that death was the penalty if any officer of the guards absented himself from his post or mislaid his sword. Then to test the volunteer he sent him on a flight of wine to "molest his commission."

The jester, as was expected, drank to the hilt, and when he awoke he found the intoxicating plot. While he was sleeping off his debauch the czar himself crept into the room and carried away the sword. Blakreiff, though badly scared, on awaking made swift to replace the missing weapon with his own wooden imitation.

When the czar awoke, he was called to parade next morning. When Peter feigned indignation at the untidiness of one of the guards.

"Draw your sword and cut off the head of that sloven?"

"I cannot," he said, "as my sword is broken. Oh, merciful God," he prayed, "grant that my sword may turn into wood before I use it on one of my own men."

And lo, when he unheated the blade stood heavily as a wooden one. Peter laughed heartily at the czar's presence of mind and restored him in favor.

A more serious offense resulted in Blakreiff's banishment to the forest. "Never dare appear again to Russian soil," stormed the emperor. Judge then of Peter's surprise when, a week later, he was told that Blakreiff had been driving a cart past the palace.

"How dare you disobey me?" shouted the enraged monarch. "Did I let you over to show yourself on Russian soil?"

"Nay," replied Blakreiff. "I have not disobeyed you. This is not Russian soil, but Finland."

"How say you—not Russian soil?" "Truly not. This cartload of earth which I am now slowly but surely getting rid of is Finland only the other day."

Again the czar laughed uproariously and pardoned his jester. "Never dare appear again to Russian soil," stormed the emperor. Judge then of Peter's surprise when, a week later, he was told that Blakreiff had been driving a cart past the palace.

Blithew's Luck

"You're in pretty good luck, ain't ye, partner?" said old Hawkins as he drove up to where Blithew sat on his overturned automobile, which had been successfully emulated the turtle in getting over its back.

"Luck," growled Blithew. "Luck! Do you call it luck to have your machine turned down side up in the middle of a muddy road and no derelict in your kit to set her right?"

"Ye-ah," returned Blithew, with a pleasant grin. "With all her machinery turned up, that way ye don't suffer no down on your back in the mud underneath her to see what's gone wrong."—Harpers Weekly.

But, Oh, My! Little bits of water. From into snow. Make about fifty thousand clerks, bookkeepers, office boys, stenographers, shopgirls, cashiers, waiters, messengers, elevator boys, draftsmen, bill collectors, accountants and other big men being two or three hours late in the morning. Their work doesn't stop. And cause no end of woe.

An Animated "Dummy." A man who lives in a Kansas town is very particular to have everything in his store in proper trim. In the ladies' suit department is a dummy which is always dressed in the height of fashion and which always stands in the exact center of a certain rug. In the dusk one evening he walked in and saw the dummy out of its place. With a snort of disgust and impatience he walked over, picked it up and set it where it belonged. To his great amazement it moved and talked some. He had picked up a live woman.—Housekeeper.

The Decadent Drama. I hate to see a problem play in which the leading lady feels often called upon to say her former life is a shadow.

But to the modern problem play. The old is not a marker. For now we hear the lady say: Her future will be darker.

Progress. Friend—I tell you, old man, inventions make wonderful rapid progress nowadays, don't they?

Aviator—Yes, but! If they grant us the patent on our new engine by 1914, and we get rid of the infringers by 1925 and finish our suit with the Higher company, which is returnable in 1934, we shall have the world what an aeroplane really is.—Puck.

Cameo. For hope, which glides the shadows where they fall. Discovers the hour which brings the time of day.

It only glides the first of all events. As soon as we round the corner, the scene is changed.

Notes for the War Cry. Two low howling, snarling, roaring dogs got in the car and entered into a discussion of their household cares and worries. Finally when the subject of jealousy was reached one said to the other: "Yes; we tried some cat apples last year, but the stuff wouldn't bite, and we had to give it to the Salvation Army."—Life.

The New Fashion. If you go to the ball or the opera you'll find. Or too many girls it is true. As they want to get out of long dresses too.

Diverging. Hubby—I'm afraid I'm becoming cross-eyed, my dear.

Wife—The ideal. Why do you think that?

Government Roads

The government is just as backward as ever in attending to the wants and dire needs of this constituency. Truly we are a long suffering people. It seems to be against the doctrines of Socialism and the belief of C. M. O'Brien, our M.
 P. P., to advocate anything that would materially benefit this constituency.

The road over the Frank slide is just as dangerous as ever, and we would like to say that it is now time that the government were about fulfilling their promises. This imposition has been forced upon a patient and much neglected people so long that it has now become almost unbearable.

The treatment which has been meted out to us by the provincial government is deserving of the strongest repudiation, while a party guilty of such utter neglect is entitled to receive the unanimous and most severe censure and condemnation of the electors of this constituency. Even a rebellious, and God-forsaken people are deserving of much better treatment.

Deputations have from time to time, met the heads of the government. Petitions have been forwarded to the government who in return have sometimes promised to, (but often have ignored), the prayers of the residents of a sadly neglected constituency.
 Why the government still persists in allowing a large annual death toll, to say nothing of the inconvenience caused by that almost impassable road through the Frank slide, is more than we can understand.
 To say the least, their action in this matter is nothing short of a piece of boldness.

Editorial Notes

The road to success is paved with good advertisements.

Good morning. Have you cleaned up your back yard?

A unanimous vote at the rate-payers meeting for taking the census of Blaimore, is a plain proof that the general feeling is at last in favor of incorporation.

What is the matter with the Frank Board of Trade? We think it would be right and proper for the chairman of the village council to call a meeting and reorganize the board.

If the government will repair the roads through the Pass and make a better and straighter highway through the slide, the people will, as with one voice, call them blessed.

If we look only for crooked trees in the timber, we will find plenty of them, but we will miss by many a straight, beautiful tree and never notice them. So, too, if we look only for blemishes in the character of others, we will find them, but we may not notice the many good qualities that they may possess.

We would like to advise all those who have not already paid their dog taxes, to do so immediately. The police are rounding those delinquents up, and whenever we are called upon to do the shooting we are there at once with the goods.

Saturday last, May 6th, was the first anniversary of the death of His late Majesty King Edward VII. That sad event cast a gloom over the entire civilized and peace loving countries of the world. He right royally won the title of "The Peacemaker."

While we congratulate the good people of Coleman upon being no longer pestered by the late editor of the Coleman Miner, we sympathize with the innocent people of Carleton upon whom his presence is being inflicted. Our advice to the Carleton people is: "Search and ye shall find."

C. M. O'Brien, the Socialist member in the provincial house, mournfully states that he had helped to make fortunes for other people. Charlie should be more like his Socialist friend Hawthorthwaite, the member of Nanaimo, B.C., be more progressive, make a fortune for himself and consequently he won't have such big regrets to make.

Coleman Notes

W. Bridgeford was in Blaimore on Monday.

Mayor Cameron and Alderman Morrison were in Frank on Sunday.

A flag staff, 150 feet in height, is being installed at the public school.

Timbers saw mill at this place is making large shipments of high grade lumber these days.

Rev. A. B. N. Crowther, M. A., of Michel, conducted service in St.
 Alban's church on Sunday evening.

Coleman lodge, No. 36, L. O. O.
 F., held a social dance in their hall on Tuesday evening.

L. A. Manly has disposed of his interest in the wholesale liquor business here to A. A. Sparks of Blaimore.

W. Pearson, late of the Coleman Grocery left on Saturday evening for Golden where he has accepted a position in a general store.

Prof. Mental and Miss Billie Dare and their clever company appeared at the opera house here on Saturday and Monday nights.

C. M. O'Brien, M. P. P. for this constituency, is now in the East giving lectures on Socialism. He has just left Ontario and has gone to the Maritime provinces.

Quite a number of neat and commodious dwellings have been recently erected in our beautiful town, some of the store buildings are being renovated while others are being enlarged, many of the streets are being graded and put in first-class condition. These and other avenues of labor are affording employment to quite a number of our men. Notwithstanding the fact that the mines are closed down, on account of the strike, signs of activity are very general around town.

There's Hope for the Bachelors Several laundry maids from England have recently arrived in Coleman—Greenwood Lodge.

J. W. Gresham, of Frank, has just been appointed deputy sheriff in place of Archie Mc-Leod, who has resigned.

Of Interest to Dancers

In a normal life dance the parties travel something like 11 and a half miles and do it in a much more strenuous fashion than they would if they calmly set out to walk the same distance. An average walk takes a person over something like three quarters of a mile and the various old-fashioned square dances are at least half a mile long. Is it any wonder that many who indulge in the "light fantastic" when they return home at 4 or 5 a.m. are far from being in the fit condition for the duties of the day which follow. The windows of the dancing room should always be opened and a constant supply of fresh oxygen should be available for the overworked heart.

Bellevue Foot- ball Enthusiasts

The football committee convened for Friday night met and received the league report of suggested rules. These were carefully considered and a few amendments suggested. One of these amendments to the rules was the inclusion of a method of procedure in case two teams at the end of the season having equal points. The method suggested was to give one third of the net proceeds of a match played for championship to each of the two teams or clubs affected and the other third to the league funds.

A general football meeting was held on Monday night in the Company's hall to receive the deputation's report and to decide upon teams for practice on Wednesday night. It is likely that the suggestion of the Rev. T. B. Jones will be acted on, viz: To play the forwards against the defence and fill up the other places with the best obtainable players. By this method the defence and the forwards will be able to practice combination systematically and the defence will be tested by as good a set of forwards as they are likely to meet.

Sketch of John Brown of Hillcrest

The Lethbridge Herald of Friday has the following to say about John Brown, manager of the Hillcrest Coal & Coke Co., of Hillcrest.

"An interesting individuality in the person of John Brown, now manager of the Hillcrest mines, and a member of the Operators' Association, has been in attendance upon the sessions of the Conciliation Board here.

"Mr. Brown declines any relationship to that other John Brown, to whom some people ascribe patriotic principles of the highest order, and others look upon as having shown evidences of insanity. Mr. Brown first became known to the mining people of the Crow's Nest Pass by his connection, in the capacity of superintendent at the Hosmer mines during the purely development stage of that great mine. The tunnel driven into the hill at that place is one of the finest pieces of mining construction work to be found any where on this continent.

"Mr. Brown severed his connection with the Hosmer mines, and went to Oklahoma two years ago.
 He was manager for one of the coal mines at MacAllister, that state, for some time, and during his stay there he met with rather an unpleasant experience. A shot lighter was killed by the explosion of a shot, while he was alone in the mine. Mr. Brown went down to see what had happened, and was overcome by the after damp caused by the exploded shot. He was in the mine for thirty hours before he could be rescued. When found he was unconscious, but had succeeded in getting within a few hundred feet of the outlet.

"The shot lighter was killed, but evidently had lived for a short time after the accident. This occurred between Christmas and New Year's, 1909."

The General Run of Paints are first-rate for ordinary purposes.
 But we claim that our paints are above the general run, and will outlast the others.
 If you want paints that are really good, our paint is the place to get them. We have them in all the colors in general use, and when once you see our paints, you'll feel satisfied that they are the best.
 A NECESSARY element to make your house, fence or barn look neat and attractive is to give it a coat or two of paint occa-

News of World-Wide Interest From the Canadian Metropolis

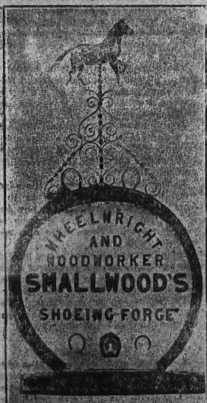

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Montreal, May 11.—The Board of Control, or (detestation) plan of commission government for cities as it is called in the United States where it originated, is a failure in so far as Montreal is concerned according to the hands of ex-adeermen, would-be contractors, ward heelers and others who have formed themselves into an organization whose aim is to resist the city hall for the old form of administrative patronage and plunder carried on so successfully until last year under the old system of civic government by administrative committee.

The commissioners have held the chief of office for slightly over a year now. Anyone who takes the trouble to compare, in ever so casual a manner, the results which have been achieved, in that short time in the way of civic improvement, with the results which were promised but which were never forthcoming during the many years of administrative sway, will agree that a new system, instead of being a failure as claimed, has been a great success. There have been shortcomings of course, but all around it may be safely said that never before has the city's money and energy been put to better use than during the last twelve months. When the Board of Control was elected the number of aldermen was cut down from two to one for each ward. This left a few gentlemen at home who had had a taste of political life, and hankered for more. Up to the present they have been kept quiet, but now, it appears, they are getting restless and intend to make a concerted effort to obtain control of the municipal power struggle once more.

In the Canadian child "forward" Members of the commission of English educational experts who are visiting Canada in the interests of education, answer the question with an emphatic negative.

"That is to say," said one of the commissioners, "the children are not 'forward' in the sense of the word, which is generally interpreted as rudeness. On the other hand, they are bright, and show an absolute absence of self-consciousness, which is really delightful. It indicates, in an individual and an alertness which will make them good, bright, self-reliant citizens of the future. It also speaks well for the system of instruction given in the schools, and is a testimonial of the careful work of the teacher, whose salary is not commensurate with the efforts that both he and she must have made in order to obtain such results."

The above is a half-tonne facsimile of a sign constructed by Robert Smallwood, blacksmith and wheelwright, Blaimore, and just placed in position in front of his forge on south Main Street, which is well worthy of inspection by anyone visiting Blaimore. The large circle represents a horse-shoe. It is six feet in diameter either way, and is welded from the best of shoeing steel. The twisted scroll on top, as well as the lettering in the body, are all hand-forged, the result of much time and patience on the part of this popular mechanic.

The Commission, which is composed of leading British educationalists, is making a tour of the Dominion with a view to reporting on the school system here.

General compulsory vaccination has been ordered by the provincial board of health of the province of Quebec. This will mean not only vaccination for those who have never been vaccinated, but revaccination for those who have not been vaccinated for the last seven years.

This stringent step has been adopted in view of the discovering that cases had been reported in more than twenty counties.

Moreover, the attention of the board has been called to the fact that as lumbermen returned from the bush inspectors found many cases of smallpox.

Dr. E. Pelletier, secretary of the provincial board of health, declares that it is time to stamp out the contagion before it has become too general. "We are surrounded by smallpox," said he. "Quebec is not much less of a neighboring State, are also on the verge of an epidemic."

We have discovered lately that hundreds of cases have been abated by the physicians, sometimes through ignorance, and sometimes quite deliberately. This is the explanation of the numerous outbreaks reported from over twenty counties of the province.

Eighteen hours of work out of the twenty-four should be the limit for any man in any class of work, and only on account of muscular exertion and falling strength but also because of falling brain power, the unwelcome duty to appreciate his surroundings and to direct his operations. Such is the substance of the opinion given by Dr. Francois de Martigny, chief surgeon of the hotel Dieu, who in the case of Dame L. Lavigne against the Canadian Northern claiming $8,000 for the death of her husband.

Broollette was killed in a fall at about ten in the morning after having been at work since seven o'clock of the previous morning, having suspended work only for meal hours, and having worked through day and night. The contention of the plaintiff was that the company had not righted away men to work during such long hours.

Dr. de Martigny was called by the plaintiff's counsel to state, what was the limit of a man's endurance, and placed the limit at eighteen hours of continual work or brain work, reasonable time being allowed for meals.

Pendente Lite

Our wife's gone to the country.
Hurry! hurry!
She's got our bag of money and She's got a bill to pay.
Sister settlements we hope she's got.
For they are only tummy ruts.
Hurry! hurry!
They're hungry we can't forget.
Hurry! hurry!
She'll buy a lot, we do not think.
Hurry! hurry!
They're only fit to buy a drink.
For that's what they say.
She ain't got half a dollar—Sister settlements, that's smaller—They make some people taller.
Hurry! hurry!
There's a certain spot whose name is known.
Hurry! hurry!
It's waiting, apoplexy cold round town.
In honest people's way.
It takes a pile to make one rich.
It wears his things down to niche, And sends some paupers to the ditch.
While the rest of them hurry!
His circulation once was stopped.
Hurry! hurry!
Now with it one can't buy a drop.
And it is all got away.
If you lose the nervous penny, And find out there isn't any.
Hark the ghost shouts of many—
Hurry! hurry!

His many friends will be pleased to see him back.

The splendid work of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets is daily coming to light. No such grand remedy for liver and bowel troubles was ever known before. Thousands bless them for curing constipation, sick headache, biliousness, jaundice and indigestion. Sold by dealers everywhere.

Mrs. Williams Given a Farewell Party at Frank

A farewell party was held in Knox Methodist church on Monday evening last, in honor of Mrs. C. Williams, president of the Ladies' Aid of the Methodist church upon her leaving Frank to reside in Cranbrook, B. C.

About twenty jovial couples were present and a very enjoyable time was spent. Shortly after 8 o'clock, pleasant games were fleetly indulged in and were kept going for some time. Some of the games were the cause of considerable merriment and loud laughter. All present were enjoying themselves when the sound of the diaphanoid of still better things. It was not long before the happy party was freely partaking of the delectable refreshments prepared for the inner man. After the diaphanoid which had been so splendidly prepared by the good ladies, under the direction of Mrs. Wilcox, had been done justice to Miss Paul gave two recitations. Rev. K. Kingston then read the address which appears below, after which Mrs. R. McGowan on behalf of the Ladies' Aid, presented Mrs. C. Williams with a beautifully hand-painted china bread and butter set. Mrs. Williams thanked the ladies for their kind thought of her and she expressed the hope that the conquering Ladies' Aid with all its redeeming qualities will ever flourish and continue to be a help and a blessing to the church and to the community.

The address presented to Mrs. Williams was as follows:
MRS. CHARLES WILLIAMS
MADAME, In behalf of the Ladies' Aid Society of Knox Methodist church, we are gathered this evening to bid you God-speed upon the journey which you are taking tomorrow towards a new home, new friendships and new activities.

During the comparatively short time you have been with us we had come to deem you among the most loyal workers and untiring devotees, "which we are and whom we serve."

Under any condition your departure could not be viewed without regret. Friendships formed in this most mobile of all lands are in some respects far more important than those formed in more settled places. There, a friendship is but one out of many bright places on life's pathway. Here, it is an oasis in a desert and anywhere it is true that "he that has a thousand friends has not a friend to spare." However, we part but for a reason. The well-known attraction of our village are bound ere long to lure you back.

Under the conditions now obtaining as regards our work and God's work here, your departure is more than the mere transit of an individual, it is the weakening of the small but resolute army which fights for the righteous. In this society we have learned to appreciate your assistance in our work and will the more appreciate it when that assistance is, unavoidably withdrawn.

Therefore we beg in the name of the ladies of this church to tender to you a slight reminder and token of our appreciation, wishing you all of happiness and prosperity which God can give you both in this world and that which is to come.

In behalf of the society,

K. KINGSTON, Pastor.

Happenings in and Around Bellevue

Miss Herrick has secured a position with Mrs. Macdonald.

Miss McKay is visiting her sister, Mrs. Macdonald, and Mr. McKay her father, for a few days. She is calling on her way West.

Jack Brownrigg has gone for a few days to Hosmer and Fernie. There is a polar influence that way. We wait the announcement of an interesting chapter in personal history.

Arnold Varley and Mary Fisher are the latest scarlet fever victims. Arnold has it so mild that it isn't like having it at all. Yet he must do three weeks in quarantine. The other cases are progressing nicely.

The subscription list for the football season is now out and open with promises of $50 from each of the hotels providing the games soon open up again. Mr. Macdonald has promised his support and will take a keen interest in the sport.

The jolly party which went to the North Fork from the hotel Southern a couple of weeks ago, returned on Sunday night, and their place has been taken by a party from the Bellevue. This latter group intend camping out seeking sport until the strike is over. Maybe they will see a gopher soon and make a hurried return.

William Chappell's mare, Dolly, was killed on the C. P. R. May 3rd. Evidently shielding her colt, she was hit by the train and dragged twenty feet or so along the track, and there been an attempt to stop the train she would have cleared. The claim on the C. P. R. will not cover the loss for she was a favorite in Bellevue, reliable for buggy or saddle. The colt escaped with a few scratches.

The visitors to Bellevue find much to interest them and dozens of loaded vehicles might be seen entering the town. One of the many places to visit is the Bear Hut. The animal feed while you wait. One day recently two men called when it was almost dark, and one curious to see whether the creature was alive or no ventured to put his face near the little hole which acts as a window. A swift move of the bear, a narrow shave of the face, sent the observer rolling over. There are quite a few things men don't like catching and a bear's claw in the mouth is one.

At the bible class, which meets Thursday nights in the parsonage, those attending have some interesting times. After the discussion of the week's topic some of the attenders become reminiscent. Last week one told a yarn about a visitor once going to a window and hearing an account of the husband in glory. "But how do you know he is in glory?" the visitor ventured to ask. "Why man, doesn't it say in the Bible, 'except ye become as little children ye cannot enter into the Kingdom of heaven.' " "Yes," said the visitor, "but how does that affect his case?" "Well, you see when he was dying, he closed his eyes and said 'man give me some pap.' "

John D. Rockefeller would go broke if he should spend his entire income trying to prepare a better medicine than Chamberlain's Cough, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for diarrhoea, dysentery or bowel complaints. It is simply impossible, and so says everyone that has used it. Sold by dealers everywhere.
